

Peter Lunenborg

Peter Lunenborg (LLM, MSc) graduated from Erasmus University Rotterdam. He has practical trade experience as a manager with Maersk Line, in regional office and headquarter positions. He has deep experience in trade and investment policies and negotiations including by working with intergovernmental organizations including South Centre, the African Union Commission, the United Nations (in particular UNDESA and UNECA), the International Trade Centre, the Commonwealth Secretariat, ECOWAS Commission, Islamic Development Bank and World Bank.

He contributed to, conceptualized, developed and crafted numerous negotiation outcomes at the WTO and in other trade agreements, including development of instruments to implement the ECOWAS Common External Tariff, the tariff concessions under the African Continental Free Trade area (AfCFTA) and the WTO Agreement on Fisheries Subsidies. He published numerous peer-reviewed articles and research papers on trade.

He co-developed a Green Investment Treaty (Stockholm Treaty Lab). He has been Member of the UNCTAD Working Group on Commodities as well as Advisory Panel UN Forum on Sustainability Standards, amongst others.